Background

Produces a readiness plan for gaming self-regulation — aligning with self-regulatory body/industry-code expectations, the due-diligence and player-protection standards to meet, and documentation. Use it to prepare for SRB/self-regulatory verification. For the wider rules use the Online Gaming Rules Compliance Guide.

Purpose of this tool & output

Prepare for gaming self-regulation/SRB

How the output is used

Use it to prepare for gaming self-regulation and registration with a Self-Regulatory Body (SRB) as the online-gaming framework requires.

Who receives it

The registration/verification is with the designated Self-Regulatory Body (SRB) recognised under the online-gaming rules (overseen by MeitY), for permissible online real-money games.

How to submit / file it

Apply to the SRB with the game, its skill-basis, KYC/AML, responsible-gaming and fund-protection details; the SRB reviews and verifies the game before it can be offered.

Fees & charges

An SRB membership/verification fee as set by the body; costs also include the compliance systems the SRB requires.

Who should vet it

The Self-Regulatory Body that verifies the game, and a gaming lawyer to prepare the application and confirm the skill-basis.

Important cautions

The self-regulatory-body mechanism for online gaming is still being operationalised in India — align with prevailing industry codes and be ready for verification, but track the current position and any officially recognised bodies with specialist legal advisors. This is guidance, not legal/compliance advice.
