Background

Get a guide to obtaining a PSARA licence for a private security agency in India — eligibility, training tie-up, documents, police verification, fees and the state application process — so you can operate legally. Describe your agency below.

Purpose of this tool & output

Get your private security agency licence

How the output is used

Use it to get your private security agency licence — the PSARA licence a security agency must hold before it can supply guards.

Who receives it

The licence is granted by the State Controlling Authority under the Private Security Agencies (Regulation) Act (PSARA).

How to submit / file it

Apply with the company, a training tie-up, directors antecedents and prescribed documents; police verification and a training MoU precede the licence.

Fees & charges

A licence fee per the number of districts/state applied for and periodic renewal; operating without a PSARA licence is an offence.

Who should vet it

A PSARA consultant and the State Controlling Authority, which verify antecedents, training and documents before grant.

Important cautions

AI-generated guide; PSARA rules vary by state - confirm with the state Controlling Authority.
